

Last Redneck Sheriff

David Kuncicky

Chorus

The last red-neck sheriff of old Le-on County He wore a Stet-son and he chewed a big cig-ar The deal-ers went to hid-ing and the hip-pies went run-ning Eve-ry time the high sheriff went cruis-ing in his car

Chorus: The last redneck sheriff of old Leon County
 He wore a Stetson and he chewed a big cigar Ch 1. The dealers went to hiding and the hippies all went running Ch 2. The muggers all went vamoose and the hippies headed homeward Ch 3. The hippies all took shelter and the drugs went helter skelter Ch 4. The hippies all went running and the dealers went to hiding Ch 5. The dealers went in hiding and the hippies all went running
 Every time the high sheriff went cruising in his car

Verse 1

The first time I met him was back in high school When me and my buddies would go out on a drunk
 He'd pull us over, and he'd shine his flashlight, He'd search the glove box, and he'd open up the trunk

Well I know y'all been drinkin' but I can't find the bottle I can't find the bottle so I'll have to let you go
 Well we'd hooked up the windshield washer and stuck the tube right through the dashboard
 And filled it up with Jim Beam - we had whiskey on the go

Chorus 2

Verse 2

They called Tallahassee the Berkeley of the Southland Today now in hindsight that may have been a stretch
 Well but we did storm the student union one night in a rampage
 He showed up with 20 deputies with fixed bayonets

Well I think this protesting thing has been a real good party I mean I like the chanting and smoking pot and all
 But man, no one said that we could get punctured I'd rather go to my dorm room and watch a little football

Break

Folks say he was member of a secret club Well no one could prove it back in the day
 But folks back home all knew that he Lucky Thirteen Was a secret branch ... of the local KKK

He had his own peculiar way of getting out the vote He'd find himself a black man and he'd hand the guy a note
 If you want to vote today, son, then read this sentence, please Man says "I guess I ain't voting cause that's written in Chinese"

Chorus 4

Verse 4

When it was time for re-election they said he was a shoo-in But it was the women who finally brought him down
 He thought he could tell jokes just like he used to could But the times they were a changin' in this Panhandle town

He was speak-ing at the law school when he got to joking It got so quiet you could hear a bullet drop
 "When I get up in the morning ... I like my coffee Just like my women - white, sweet and hot" ... whoops

Chorus 5

Tag: The dealers they went hiding and I went running Every time Ray Hamlin went patrolling in his car
